Course Introduction

Public-Private Partnerships Policy Formulation and Reform Training Course provides a comprehensive framework for developing, reviewing, modernizing, and implementing effective Public-Private Partnerships policies that support sustainable infrastructure development, public-sector efficiency, private-sector investment, and economic growth. The course examines policy architecture, regulatory reform, institutional governance, fiscal sustainability, risk allocation, project prioritization, stakeholder engagement, investment frameworks, transparency, accountability, and evidence-based policy development. Participants will gain practical capabilities for designing Public-Private Partnerships policies that respond to changing market conditions, emerging technologies, climate priorities, and evolving infrastructure needs.

The training also focuses on Public-Private Partnerships policy reform, benchmarking, international best practices, regulatory impact assessment, implementation mechanisms, monitoring frameworks, and continuous policy improvement. Through global case studies, policy simulations, interactive exercises, and practical reform scenarios, participants will explore how governments and institutions can strengthen Public-Private Partnerships ecosystems, attract credible investors, improve project pipelines, enhance value for money, and establish resilient policy frameworks aligned with national development strategies and sustainable development goals.
