Radicalization Assessment and Intervention Training Course

Professional Development Training Course Outline

Category	Criminology	Duration	10 Days
Base Fee	$3,000 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

Radicalization presents a critical threat to global peace, security, and community stability. The process by which individuals adopt extremist ideologies and potentially transition to violent actions requires a nuanced, multidisciplinary approach for effective prevention and intervention. Training Course on Radicalization Assessment & Intervention provides professionals with the knowledge, tools, and frameworks needed to identify early warning signs, understand radicalization pathways, and implement evidence-based intervention strategies. Designed using current data, behavioral models, and psychological assessments, the course prepares practitioners to counter violent extremism (CVE) through tailored risk assessments and cross-sector collaboration.

By integrating trending concepts like cognitive vulnerabilities, online radicalization, and trauma-informed approaches, this course equips learners to conduct assessments that are culturally competent and contextually appropriate. It also supports policy reform, community engagement, and reintegration programming, aligning with global counterterrorism and social resilience goals. The course supports intelligence, corrections, law enforcement, social services, education, and public health sectors, ensuring that practitioners understand the radicalization spectrum and intervene effectively at individual and structural levels.
