

Records Management for Labour Organizations Training Course

Professional Development Training Course Outline

Category	Trade Unions	Duration	5 Days
Base Fee	$1,500 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

In today’s fast-evolving digital workplace transformation, effective records management for labour organizations has become a critical pillar for compliance, governance, transparency, and accountability. Labour unions, federations, and worker associations handle vast volumes of sensitive data including member records, collective bargaining agreements, grievance documentation, legal correspondence, and financial reports. Without structured information lifecycle management, organizations risk data loss, inefficiency, regulatory penalties, and weakened advocacy impact. Records Management for Labour Organizations Training Course equips participants with modern strategies in digital archiving, document control systems, data protection compliance, and records retention policies aligned with global best practices.

The course emphasizes practical implementation of electronic records management systems (ERMS), GDPR-aligned data governance frameworks, and secure digital transformation strategies tailored for labour institutions. Participants will gain expertise in improving workflow automation, audit readiness, knowledge preservation, and secure information access systems. By integrating real-world scenarios and case-based learning, the program strengthens institutional capacity for strategic decision-making, operational efficiency, and sustainable records lifecycle governance in labour organizations.
