Course Introduction

Sexual offending and victim support are critical areas in modern criminology, psychology, and social work. Training Course on Sexual Offending & Victim Support is designed to equip professionals with in-depth knowledge, evidence-based strategies, and trauma-informed practices to both understand sexual offending behaviors and effectively support victims. With a focus on prevention, intervention, legal frameworks, and survivor-centered care, the course bridges the gap between theory and practice in tackling sexual violence. Professionals will gain the necessary tools to engage ethically and effectively within various institutional and community contexts.

With rising global awareness around sexual abuse, harassment, and assault, it is essential that law enforcement officers, social workers, healthcare professionals, educators, and legal practitioners are equipped to respond sensitively and effectively. This course integrates trending topics such as restorative justice, trauma-informed care, offender rehabilitation, child sexual exploitation, and digital sexual crimes. Through real-world case studies, interactive learning, and multidisciplinary perspectives, participants will build competency in both managing offender risk and fostering healing for survivors.
