Course Introduction

Achieving universal and adequate social protection, a cornerstone of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), requires substantial and sustainable financial investment. However, many countries, particularly low and middle-income economies, face significant fiscal constraints, making the expansion and strengthening of social protection systems a complex endeavor. Fiscal Space Assessment is a critical analytical tool that systematically identifies and quantifies the potential for governments to raise additional resources and/or reallocate existing expenditures to fund desired public policy objectives, such as comprehensive social protection. Training Course on Fiscal Space Assessment for Sustainable Social Protection will equip with the expert knowledge and practical methodologies to conduct robust fiscal space assessments and develop actionable financing strategies for sustainable social protection systems. The program focuses on macroeconomic frameworks for fiscal space, detailed analysis of revenue and expenditure options, the political economy of fiscal reforms, debt sustainability, managing fiscal risks, and developing comprehensive financing roadmaps, blending rigorous analytical frameworks with practical, hands-on application, global case studies (with a strong emphasis on African contexts, including Kenya), and intensive fiscal modeling and financing strategy development exercises. Participants will gain the strategic foresight and technical expertise to confidently identify and unlock sustainable financing for expanding social protection, fostering unparalleled financial resilience, equitable coverage, and transformative impact, thereby securing their position as indispensable leaders in securing the financial bedrock of inclusive development. This comprehensive 10-day program delves into nuanced methodologies for conducting in-depth macroeconomic and fiscal sustainability analyses to understand current fiscal health, mastering sophisticated techniques for evaluating the revenue potential and distributional impact of various tax policy reforms, and exploring cutting-edge approaches to identifying and analyzing expenditure inefficiencies, leveraging digital financial services to enhance revenue collection and payment efficiency, and designing multi-layered financing strategies that combine diverse sources. A significant focus will be placed on understanding the interplay of fiscal space assessment with broader national development plans and public financial management (PFM) reforms, the specific challenges of financing social protection in contexts with large informal economies and high debt burdens (as observed in many African countries, including Kenya), and the practical application of political economy analysis to navigate reform processes and build broad-based consensus among diverse stakeholders.
