Training Course on The Gig Economy and Retirement Savings

Professional Development Training Course Outline

Category	Pension and Retirement	Duration	10 Days
Base Fee	$3,000 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

Training Course on The Gig Economy and Retirement Savings is designed for financial advisors, HR professionals, policymakers, and researchers who are interested in understanding the implications of the gig economy on retirement savings. As the workforce increasingly shifts towards gig and freelance work, traditional retirement savings models are becoming less applicable. Gig workers often lack access to employer-sponsored retirement plans, leading to significant challenges in building adequate retirement savings. The gig economy encompasses a wide range of workers, including freelancers, contractors, and part-time employees, who typically do not receive the same benefits as traditional employees. This trend poses unique challenges for retirement planning, including issues of income variability, lack of employer contributions, and financial literacy. Understanding these challenges is crucial for developing effective retirement savings strategies that cater to the needs of gig workers. This course will explore the dynamics of the gig economy, the barriers faced by gig workers in saving for retirement, and innovative solutions to help them build sustainable retirement savings. Participants will learn about regulatory frameworks, best practices, and emerging trends that impact gig workers' financial security. Through a combination of theoretical insights, case studies, and practical applications, attendees will gain the knowledge and tools necessary to support retirement savings in the gig economy.
